THE FLY IN THE SPIDER'S WEB.

It is all over. Woodrow Wilson, sitting in the White House invited Governor Cox to call. Mr. Wilson set the stage. Governor Cox did call, he accepted the role offered him, memorized his part, was complimented by the director, Mr. Wilson, upon his adeptness in carrying the part assigned him and he returned to Ohio. The show will have a run of about three and a half months. The curtain will be rung down for the last time on November 4.

The critics, after its demise, will account for the failure not so much because of lack of ability in the players, but because of the thickness of the plot.

SENATOR REED STRIKES BACK.

Addressing a mass convention at Kansas City after the Democratic National Convention, Senator Reed of Missouri denounced the Wilson League as "a league of treason and a covenant of national death."

He said: "If there is one lesson this country needs to learn, it is that this is not a one-man country."

He denounced the Democratic convention as "a convention afflicted with blind staggers."

He said that "Robert Lansing was the only man the President took to France who knew anything about international law, and he was removed from office by the President because he insisted on warning the people of the true meaning of this League."

Resolutions were adopted denouncing the action of the Democratic National Convention in refusing Senator Reed a seat.

More Democratic harmony.

RAILROADS AND THE WAGE INCREASE.

On Monday evening the Bonanza in an editorial dealing with the application of the railroads of the nation for an increase in freight rates to meet operating costs went into some detail in discussing the matter and approving any reasonable increase that will enable the roads to adequately handle the transportation of the country, which the heads of the railroads themselves admit they are not doing at the present time. The railroads are contending before the interstate commerce commission that $1,017,000,000 is necessary to advance their income to the six per cent. basis permitted by the new transportation act.

Yesterday the railroad labor board, at the conclusion of its hearings in Chicago on the application of the railroad employees for increased wages handed down a decision in which 60 per cent. of the demands of the employees granted $600,000,000 is added to the national railroad pay envelope. In the original application of the railroads for increased rates it was stated that the estimate of the amount needed to bring the earnings of the roads up to the authorized six per cent. did not include or take into consideration any increase in wages that the railway labor board might grant the employees.

Whether the railways will change their application before the interstate commerce commission to include an added $600,000,000 or will file a separate application to cover the amount of the wage award remains to be seen. Such is unnecessary. The commission is not expected, and the railroads do not expect, that the application will be granted in full. The application surely was made in a sum large enough to cover any probable "cut" the commission might make. It is the rule rather than the exception in such matters to "pad" the application.

The same applies to the railroad brotherhoods. Sixty per cent. of the total wage increase asked by them was granted by the railroad labor board. The brotherhood leaders will probably fuss and fume a little because the demands were not granted in full, but on the whole they must be satisfied. It seems to us they received a mighty good deal and we do not doubt that if the railroads receive 60 per cent. of their demands from the interstate commerce commission they will be satisfied. That is probably about what they are entitled to.

It is certain that the next president will come from Ohio.

John D. Rockefeller is eighty-one, and the price of gasoline is getting there.

Plenty of bets ready that Senator Harding will carry Ohio by 50,000 plurality.

After all their loud talk, the Democrats paid no attention to a bonus to soldiers.

Harding is described in a few remaining democratic newspapers as the antithesis of Wilson.

Congress has adjourned, remarks the Charleston Daily Mail, but the President remains in executive session.

Poland, untaught by Germany's example, had to learn by experience that a war of conquest doesn't pay.

This is the first time both of the leading parties presented "printer's devils" to the voters as candidates for President.

Senator Harding will win the presidency because he stands for constitutional government and for sound, constructive and progressive administration as well as legislation.

No second ballot was needed in Euen and Malmedy, which had a chance to say whether they would be Belgian or German territory. Two hundred protests out of 68,000 population saved the affair from being one of those uninteresting unanimous things, and Belgian they are!
